The Licking river has gone back into its banks after wandering over Morgan county farm lands continuously for nearly two weeks.

Because our regular supply of paper failed to get thru, we are forced to issue only a four page edition of the Courier this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester McKenzie's children have been seriously ill with pneumonia. One is now able to sit up some, and the others are improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Elam and little son James Donald, of Lexington, have been visiting Mrs. Elam's sister, Mrs. Walter Cox, at Malone, for a few days.

Mrs. W. H. Childers and little granddaughter, Pauline Mack, went to Tar Ridge on Tuesday for a few days' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Day.

Owing to the sacrifices being made by our people to assist the flood sufferers, the box supper to raise money to help equip the new school building has been called off for the present.

Mrs. Emma Rose and little daughter Mary Lee, of Water street, who had been visiting her sisters, Mrs. S. S. Arnett of Ashland and Mrs. Lelah Rose of Huntington, W. Va., have returned home.

HELPED MAKE FLOOD

That Morgan contributed its share of the water which caused the appalling flood conditions along the Ohio river may be realized from the observations of a local citizen. According to careful and actual measurement, he reports a total rainfall here of 10½ inches from Jan. 15 to Jan. 24. This nine day rainfall is nearly one fourth of the normal rainfall of this section for one year.

This abnormal rainfall was general and simultaneous over the seven states which compose the drainage area of the Ohio river. It is indeed fortunate for lower Mississippi territory that this rainfall did not prevail over the drainage area of the Missouri and upper Mississippi rivers at the same time.

ALABAMA DRYS WIN

Dry leaders in Alabama are rejoicing today over the action of the state senate in voting down a proposed repeal bill 20 to 12.

The lower house in Alabama, under pressure of wet lobbyists, passed a measure to legalize the sale of intoxicants, but the legislature adjourned before the senate acted upon the bill.

In the interim, church leaders throughout the state waged a vigorous campaign urging their senators to respect their campaign pledges. Alabama, dry for 21 years, is the only state in the nation which prohibits the sale of all intoxicants, including beer. In Kansas and Oklahoma, both under constitutional prohibition, 32 beer is generally dispensed on the grounds that it is a "non-intoxicating" beverage, according to the National Voice news bureau.

ADAMS — WALTERS

Late Friday evening, Jan. 22, 1937, Wardell Walters and Miss Christine Adams were quietly married at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Harlen Murphy. Their friends, Miss Frances Day and Miss Mildred Whitt, witnessed the ceremony.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Adams. She graduated from Morgan county high school last spring and is quite popular in her set. Especially will she be missed by her adoring mother, as well as by the rest of the family and her friends.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Walters of Stacy Fork. The mother is deceased and the father, recently located at Belknap, Wardell is a college graduate and has held responsible positions in the office of relief workers, both in West Liberty and at Salyersville. He has held a good position in Washington, D. C., for several months. He is conscientious, tireless, and successful in all his work.

The many friends of the young people wish them a happy, useful, and successful career.

WHEN THE FLU CAME

When a married man has forced upon him the unwelcome job of "domestic boss," he revels in his unexpected promotion for a time, knowing that he may quit or be fired any day, without any financial quibbles. He may even gain peace of mind. But when, without warning, he has forced upon him his entire household, it just tries his patience and causes his hair to turn almost red; some even turn gray; and the little furrowed lines show distinctly on each corner of his handsome face.

Such is the predicament of our genial commonwealth's attorney, Mr. Flu stepped in one morning and Mr. Rose at once became a nurse to his wife, daughter, and two sons; then he must learn to prepare and serve attractive delicacies to the sick; next he must be his own assistant in the diet kitchen for the convalescent. There was consolation in this, however. He gave special attention to his little daughter, who is now his able assistant.

Nor was this all. Sweeping and dusting messed his clothes. The beds always needed to be straightened, and the pillow cases would not go on straight. He brushed his hair and ran out on the street so he need not brush up the hearth or read aloud.

With all these calamities, Mr. Rose has never once failed to perform his duties as chore boy. He says he believes all these jobs put together are easier to manage than a home filled with water to the attic.

Mr. Rose prides himself on playing the "glad game."

Serious Flood Waters

The most serious and destructive flood in Kentucky history has prevailed along the state's large rivers, particularly the Ohio, for the past week.

Louisville, with a population of nearly 400,000, has had more than half of its people driven from their homes, and nearly the entire business section has been flooded.

Frankfort, the state capitol, on the Kentucky river, has been nearly paralyzed. Waters at Frankfort are now going down fast and at Louisville and other points on the Ohio river more slowly.

Ashland and Louisville daily papers were forced to suspend publication. Most of the railroads are disabled. Mails are held up.

At West Liberty we have held bus connection with Lexington and regular mail service from Mt. Sterling. But mails from Cincinnati and all points east are out.

TO THE RESCUE

West Liberty and Morgan county have come to the relief of the flood sufferers in Kentucky to the tune of nearly a thousand dollars in money and supplies. Never were our people more of the same mind and more anxious to send help—any kind of help—to the agency perhaps best equipped and able to take care of the quarter of a million people who have been driven out of Kentucky homes by the waters of the principal streams of the state. W. M. Gardner, county Red Cross chairman, had the assistance of every organized agency in West Liberty, and was almost overwhelmed with offers of help and donations. Even before the flood was at the highest, money and provisions were on their way to Frankfort, Louisville, and Washington.

We give herewith Mr. Gardner's report of monies and goods handled up to Tuesday evening:

TELEGRAM

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26, 1937
W. M. Gardner
West Liberty, Ky.

Flood suffering has already reached unprecedented proportion with relief needs steadily mounting. Under these conditions, impossible now to name final goal for funds. Only limit of Red Cross assistance must be maximum generosity of American people. Every possible member national Red Cross staff now assigned to field for relief duty. Our call upon all chapters to assume full initiative in their respective jurisdictions and mobilize every community resource of personnel organization to raise promptly largest possible amount. Report daily. For your information, in view present known needs your goal should be not less than five times quota assigned you (Signed) CARY GRAYSON, Ch.

Our original quota was $60. We have raised more than five times our original quota. We will likely have another call. W. M. GARDNER

COUNTY CAMPAIGN YEAR

Candidates for the various county offices to be filled this fall are now becoming active.

Living conditions in a county are good, indifferent, or bad in direct proportion to the extent that its officials are honest, able spirited, and conscientious men and women.

All of us are interested in good and unselfish county government, and our voters have been more than ordinarily fortunate in their choice of officials. The one outstanding qualification for a public official is the public spiritedness which will impel him under all circumstances to perform the duties of his office in a fearless and unbiased way, with special favors to none, but exact justice to all.

The man who deals honestly with his neighbor, the man who sympathizes with a neighbor in distress, the man who has managed his farm or business, and made it successful, the man who has tried to keep in contact with the business affairs of the county and is interested in improving these affairs, that man will probably make a good county officer.

The Courier offers its services to candidates. Announcements, cards, posters, advertising space—all that the candidate requires—we offer you at prices which are in many cases below the prices charged elsewhere. Prices are cash. Do not embarrass us or yourself by suggesting or asking other terms.

This paper will be absolutely fair to all candidates, promising support to no candidate, but sure to vote for one in the end.

We sincerely believe in a fair race for each candidate and when that is had the best man generally wins. Announcements for any office to run every week up to the primary may be made now or at any time in the future before the primary date.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our many friends for their help, kindness, and sympathy in the death of our dear husband, father, son, and brother, Lloyd Engle. We want to especially thank Brother M. B. Whitt.

ENGLE FAMILY

Book Wanted
Some fifty years ago there was published, and sold in Morgan county, a book called "Hawkin's Confession." Anyone having a copy of this book in good condition and wishing to sell it, communicate with the Courier Publishing Co.

Depart this Life

WILLIAMS

Just a few hours before the sun made its appearance in the east on Sunday morning, Dec. 21, 1936, God called Ima May Williams from the shores of time to await the great resurrection morning. The deceased was 18 years, 3 months and 12 days old. Her health had been failing her for two or three years. Always done for her that loving hands could do. She was taken to different hospitals, but medical aid could not restore her health.

She was loved and admired by all who knew her. She met everyone with a smile and was always ready to help the distressed in any way she could.

She was widely related in this county and had several relatives in Johnson county. She leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. We extend our sympathy to her father and mother, Pierce and Sarah Williams, and two brothers, Clarence and Clyde. Our loss, we trust, is heaven's gain. A RELATIVE

ENGLE

Lloyd Engle was killed Friday night, Jan. 15-16, at about 1:30 a.m. by a slate fall in the coal mines at Harvington, in Perry county. While he was cutting a slate truck the left side of his head about the ear, pressing the right side of his head against the machine, he was killed. He lived only about an hour after the accident. He was born April 26, 1900. All the days of his life were 36 years, 8 months, and 21 days.

He leaves to mourn his departure his wife, Emma Engle, six children, J. C. Gabbard, Dorothy, Phil, Darlene, and George; his father, John D. Engle, of Gabbards, Ohio; his mother, Mary Engle, of York, Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. L. M. Gabbard, Mrs. Suda Lewis, and Mrs. Cassie Lewis; five brothers, Chas. Engle, of Wheelwright, Ky.; Jesse Engle, of M. Snow, Idaho; and J. Frank, C. B. and J. D. Jr., all of York and a host of other friends and relatives.

The body was given a private service from Harvington, Ky., to the grave at York, and the family was accompanied by Onie Engle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harlen Engle, James and Jesse Engle, Adam Engle, Mrs. Isabelle Brewer, Shade Brewer, sons Adam and Raymond, Mrs. Jane Yeaton, Mrs. Georgeann Campbell, Junior Mackard, Rufus Combs, Arthur Corbett, Oakley Brashers, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Harvey, John Buchanan, Mollie Bohannon, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Turner, Mrs. Margaret Spool, Luther Combs, and a number of other friends.

Many beautiful flowers were contributed by union men, and many men, and others. Funeral services were conducted at the home of his mother by Rev. M. B. Whitt. Lloyd, like many other, had failed to give his heart to God in his youthful days, but we were greatly informed by his wife that he made the great change a short time before his death.

NEW MAYTAG AGENCY

Floyd Craft of West Liberty has accepted the agency for the Maytag washer and will conduct the business under the name of West Liberty Maytag Company.

The Maytag is a nationally advertised and widely known standard machine. Mr. Craft expects to carry a full line of repairs and will take pains in servicing machines now in this territory and will be glad to demonstrate a new machine to any interested person.

Blaze in Elize

There was a busy time in the home of Ollie Sergeant at Elize on Tuesday, Jan. 19, when a kerosene lamp exploded and quite seriously burned Mrs. Sergeant and her daughter Sonia, who is about ten years old. For a time it looked like the home was doomed, but the flames were finally subdued and the home saved. Both Mrs. Sergeant and daughter were confined to their beds for a week, but are now recovering nicely.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Prayer meeting and song service at 7 o'clock every Thursday night. Sunday school at 10 o'clock a.m. Church services immediately after Sunday school and also at 7 p.m. every Sunday.

Lord's Supper the first Sunday night in each month. Everybody is invited to attend these services, "Not for the assembling of yourselves together." ROSCO BRONG, Pastor

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

With two people injured in home than in any other place, accidents, a check on the things that may save lives. Uninsured fireplaces, defective wiring, leaky stoves, and flammable substances, improperly stored or labeled, and dark, cluttered stairways.

Herbs like bay leaf, thyme, and sage are excellent for soups as well as for meats and stuffings. A half of a bay leaf or a sprig or two of dried thyme is enough for a medium sized pot roast, a piece of boiled ham, a stew, or a meat and cereal dish.

Clothes that give ample protection from the cold will keep the body from using too much energy in the effort to keep warm, and may therefore give some disease resistance. In winter time, outer wraps should be thick and warm.

A duster: Put two tablespoons of furniture polish or liquid wax into a glass jar, shake until the jar is well coated, and pour out the remainder. Put a piece of old soft silk or chamois in the jar and let it stay a day or two to absorb the polish. When the cloth becomes soiled, wash and repeat the waxing process.

Blankets that are crooked may be finished to appear straight, but with use and washing they will take on their real shape. In buying blankets, stripes or borders may be watched as guides, or if the blanket is a plain color examine to see whether the end is cut parallel to the filling threads.

Even tho it is winter, there should be plenty of fresh air in the house at all times. Like sunshine, air is the enemy of germs, and those who stay outdoors most of the time seem less likely to have colds and "catching" diseases.

Alfalfa Is Dependable Crop
The agricultural experiment station at Lexington is calling farmers' attention to the spring seeding of alfalfa, a forage crop that has demonstrated its value in the droughts of recent years. Alfalfa furnishes a remarkable amount of hay as well as pasture, and should be grown on every farm in sufficient acreage to supply the minimum requirements for hay, many farmers believe.

If the ground is dry-combed, 10 to 12 pounds of seed may be broadcast in February. If the ground is not honey-combed, then it may be necessary to wait until the soil can be lightly disked, and then seed with a seed drill. Seed must be covered, and a good uniform stand is to be obtained.

The seed should be sown on level, unless some special land or on sweet clover. It is also desirable to sow a little of grass seed per acre, and to use orchard grass or timothy. This is especially desirable if the seed is sown in a field that is not well adapted to alfalfa.

So much has been said about the practical value of alfalfa, it is pointed out that superphosphate was used on the seed, it may be necessary to use it outside the bluegrass region. To topdress the land with phosphate to the time the alfalfa is sown is a good idea.

Northern grown seed gives better results than that from the south. That produced from the state of Kansas north is considered best.

How to Get More Eggs

How to feed hens for profit, the use of protein, distillery byproducts, commercial concentrates, grain feeds, dry mash mixtures, artificial light, and other matters of interest to flock owners are discussed in a new circular of the university of Kentucky college of agriculture called "Feeding and Management of Laying Hens." See your county agent for a copy, or write to the college.

Part Time Farming

A study of part time farming among Negroes near Lexington, reported in a new bulletin of the Kentucky agricultural experiment station, says that "the experience of these farmers indicates that many persons who undertake part time farming with the hope of financial gain are likely to be disappointed." The chief advantage in devoting part of the time to farming was found to be that of reducing the cost of living, rather than making money. The experiences of 104 Negro families, mostly within Fayette county, were studied.

"THE COMPOSITE GOSPEL"

A Book Review

"Fiftyseven years ago—on Jan. 11, 1880—1 began learning the 'art preservative of arts' in the office of the 'Mountain Scorch', edited and published by John T. Hazelrigg and his son, Claude S. Hazelrigg."

Thus writes Seneca X. Swimme, now at Fort Worth, Texas, an elder in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in a letter introducing himself to the editor of the Courier. He continues:

"I have lived in the west (Oklahoma and Texas) for almost 28 years. However, my mind frequently turns to the old town and to the friends of my boyhood days. Wish I could reach them all and clasp their hands once again. To those old friends I would, thru your paper, express my continued and unflinching love and best wishes."

Rev. Swimme is a brother of E. D. Swimme, editor of the Kentucky Masonic Home Journal.

Rev. Swimme has recently edited and published a book which he calls "The Composite Gospel of Jesus Christ," and which he describes as "one continuous Gospel narrative, in the language of the King James version, edited topically and chronologically, so as to include every event narrated by any of the Evangelists and avoid repetition; with sub-headings indicating the probable time, place, and circumstances. No attempt is made to elucidate the text—it is left the task of explaining itself."

This reviewer is not one of those persons who believe that the Word of God can be improved upon by man—either by addition or by subtraction or by rearrangement. It is true that the inspired gospel writers did not always record events in order as to time, but were often led to set them forth in order as to doctrinal content. The God Who inhabits eternity, with Whom one day is "as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day," knew what He was doing when He thus led His chosen instruments to ignore time and emphasize eternal Truth.

Nevertheless "The Composite Gospel" is interesting as an expression of the ideas of Rev. Swimme, and, rightly considered, will be helpful to the Bible student. Many persons have undertaken, as they say, to "harmonize" the gospels; and, of course, hardly any two of these "harmonies" agree in all particulars. Where God has chosen to obscure, we will do well to avoid dogmatism in our assumptions. And Rev. Swimme does not claim to be infallible in his arrangement.

One section of the book, however, I consider an inexcusable meddling with the Word of God. There is room for comparison of the different presentations of the same gospel by the different writers, but when an event or discourse is recorded by only one inspired writer there is no excuse to tear up this record and then patch it together to suit our own notions. Yet this is what Rev. Swimme has done with the tenth chapter of John, and in so doing he has destroyed much of the beauty and effectiveness of the chapter.

Much the best part of this book, in so far as the book represents the opinions of Rev. Swimme, is his "critical note on the date of the nativity." Any student of the Bible knows that there is no scriptural ground for "Christmas"; any student of history knows that "Christmas" was originally a heathen holiday adopted by the Catholic church, from which it was inherited by most Protestants; but few preachers have the courage to state these facts. Neither does Rev. Swimme say this, but he does point out, and quote ample authority for the fact, that Jesus was certainly not born on Christmas day or on any other day from November to March, because there would have been no "shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night" at this season of the year. The conclusion of Rev. Swimme is that Jesus was born "in the latter part of April, B.C. 6," which is probably as good a guess as any.

"The Composite Gospel" is nicely printed in large, clear type; contains over 250 pages; and is well bound in cloth. It is priced at $1.50, and is sold only by Seneca X. Swimme, 1213 Sylvania avenue, Fort Worth, Texas. ROSCO BRONG

Sick Stock

A few farmers have reported sick horses to this office. A few counties in the state have reported a large number of horses dying.

Of course, we do not know the trouble, but due to so much rain you must be very careful or you will be feeding moldy feed to the stock. Most every year an outbreak of this occurs in some part of the United States. Horses on pasture may become sick when the growth of the grass is so profuse that it mats together and the lower parts ferment or become moldy. This trouble among horses has been called "blind staggers" in some parts of the country, "choking distemper" in others, and in some places "grass staggers." "Feed poisoning" or so-called "cerebrospinal meningitis" is another name for the trouble. The only safe thing to do is to feed only clean, well cured forage and grain and pure water. By doing this an outbreak of this trouble might be prevented in Morgan county. If you have not examined your feed for mold, be sure to do so. An ounce of prevention is certainly worth a pound of cure in this case.

Plan this spring to have some good hay for your stock. Corn and fodder alone was never intended to be a good feed for animals.

YANDAL WRATHER, Co. Agent.

Poultry News

If orders for baby chicks totaling 3500 to 4500 be made at once, we can get the chicks delivered at the same price to some point along the highway. These chicks must be U. S. approved chicks from bloodstock stock.

If you are interested in buying chicks this time, see if you can get several in your community to get together and make an order of this size. Call on the county agent's office if we can be of any help in starting your poultry program.

Several farmers and club members are now making from $20.00 to $35.00 a month above feed cost on chicks that they started last spring. Do not be too late in getting your chicks, for egg production next fall.

With KENTUCKY Editors

It has been brought to our attention that only a small percent of dog owners in Rowan county are meeting their dog taxes. The total will not run over five percent. The sheriff has the authority to kill these dogs at any time. The price of a dog tag is comparatively small—one dollar for each canine—which if collected in their entirety would not pay for the total amount of damage that dogs do.—Morehead Independent.

County and city authorities are making a concerted effort to put an end to abuses of the public wash rooms and toilets in the courthouse, which have been so badly misused by the public as to become a public nuisance and draw censure from at least two late grand juries.—Bath County News-Outline.

Live within your income and you will really live; spend more than you make and your life will be miserable.—The Bourbon News.

The Philadelphia Record, after a year's digging thru the files by reporters, uncovered 644 criminal cases in four years in which the judges solemnly pronounced sentence on the defendants in open court and then privately entered on their dockets, "case reconsidered, prisoner discharged." That might be called even-handed justice, the public getting what it wanted and the criminals what they wanted.—Courier-Journal.

For years and years, chaplains have been praying at congress. It must be discouraging.—Richmond Register.

The warden of Alcatraz prison said in a recent address that the finest prisons we can build are only monuments to neglected youth. It is cheaper to give youth what it needs, than to allow it to take what it thinks it wants. Let us remember that here in Winchester.—The Winchester Sun.

WELLS FAMILY HISTORY

Relief, Ky., Jan. 25, 1937
Editor Licking Valley Courier:

I have been asked by some members of the Wells family to write a sketch showing the background of the family, and as these people are numerous in Morgan county I would be glad if you would print the following data of this family so each who reads your paper may have a copy to file for permanent records.

The Wells family is one of the most illustrious families known to history. The derivation is traced to the year 794, when they held positions of the highest rank and were allied with most of the sovereign families of Europe by marriage.

Innumerable coats of arms were granted to members of this family. Members of this family have kept records which have been published from time to time.

The family was founded in this country by Thomas Wells, one of the English Puritans, born in England in 1570, who came to America in 1629. He settled in the state of Rhode Island and purchased 400 acres of land from the Indians. The place is now called Wellstown.

The Wells are scattered all over the United States. Of the family who settled in Kentucky we have the following: (1) General James Wells had a son, (2) Richard Wells Sr., and several other children. Richard Wells Sr. was born in 1715 in Baltimore, Md., died 1808; married Nancy Brown, daughter of George and Nancy Stevenson Brown.

To this union were born 12 children, of which I shall mention only the following: Zachariah Wells, whose descendants lived at Big Stone Gap, Va.; Moses Wells, lived in Wayne county, W. Va.; Nathaniel Wells, whose descendants lived at Carrollton, Ky.; Thomas Wells, who lived in Shelby county, Ky., and some of whose descendants went to St. Louis, Mo.; Richard Wells Jr., who settled in Floyd county and is the ancestor of the Big Sandy branch of the family.

Another son was Edmund Wells, who married Sally Cassidy and came to what is now the limit of Morgan county in 1808. He built a water mill near West Liberty in 1816. It was at his house on the banks of Licking river that the first county court was organized in 1823.

Another son, William Wells, also settled near West Liberty, and all who trace their ancestry to the Morgan county Wells are descendants of one of these brothers.

With this sketch of the family background, any descendant can easily connect the line with it with a little research.

Anyone wishing a coat of arms or further information about the Wells family may write me. I am a professional genealogist and can work on most any family history of eastern Kentucky. DONALD E. WEBB

REOBLIGATION NIGHT

To make effective the request of the grand master of the Masonic fraternity in Kentucky, Highland lodge no. 311 at its regular meeting on Saturday night, Jan. 23, unanimously voted to meet in special convocation at its hall at West Liberty at 6:30 p.m. Friday night, Feb. 12, for the purpose of reobligation and rededication of the membership to the principles of Masonry.

Arrangements were made for invitations to the membership of all the Masonic lodges in the county, the key man of the district, and one or more state officers to be present. Arrangements have also been made to serve refreshments and a social hour after the meeting.

An Interesting Opinion

I have made a life study of people who overindulge in John Barleycorn and find that Benjamin Franklin spoke no truer words than when he said, "Show me a drunkard that does not use tobacco and I will show you a white crow." Without tobacco I contend we would have no habitual drunkard, tho there might be remote cases of intoxication. When the WPA starts its drive on facts relative to alcoholic drinks they should labor to remove the cause of drinking, which I believe is nicotine. LEE CROFT

Visiting in Oklahoma

Miss Thelma Letterman and Miss Ruth Warfield, who do missionary work at Wrigley and surrounding communities, are visiting their people at Tulsa, Okla. They expect to return to Wrigley the beginning of February and begin teaching in the Wrigley Bible school Feb. 15.

New York World's Fair Site From 9,000 Feet Up

NEW YORK, (Special).—Photography and ingenuity combine to show about how the New York Fair will appear in 1939 to visitors arriving from the west in planes flying at an altitude of one and three-quarters miles. Cameramen made this "shot" from a plane over the New Jersey meadows. Shown in the foreground is the shipping along the Hudson—Manhattan with its towers grouped about the Empire State building (center) which houses present headquarters of the Fair—and in the middle distance the 1,216-acre site of the 1939 international exposition. To the right lies

Brooklyn and, beyond, the hinterland of Long Island. At the extreme left, spanning the East river, is the new Triborough bridge over which many of the 50,000,000 visitors expected at the Fair will motor to the convenient parking lots. A photograph of the table model of the Fair has been superimposed on the negative of the air view to show the grid of the central exhibit zone, the boat basin being constructed on Flushing Bay and the lagoons that will feature the exposition's amusement zone.

BLUE EYES

GEORGE BELLAMY HURT

George, the little six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Bellamy, was badly hurt when he was run over by a car driven by Wade Blair on North Main street on Thursday evening of last week. Several boys were playing ball on the street and when the ball flew across the road and in front of the oncoming machine George was after it and seemingly paid no attention to the car. Mr. Blair is a skillful and careful driver and both the occupants of the car and others who were in sight agree that the car was not going fast. Mr. Blair, who lives at Wrigley and had started for home, remained here with the little patient all night the first night and has been very attentive ever since. The little fellow is improving and it is hoped that he will fully recover.

WELLS HILL SCHOOL CLOSSES

The school on Wells Hill, taught by W. Prichard Caskey, closed Friday.

In spite of the rain, every pupil enrolled was present, a total of 35, and a few of the patrons faced the inclement weather. The teacher had prepared a liberal treat of chocolate candy for each one. The following girls received a beautiful framed picture for attending every day: Mary, Virginia, and Irene West, Helen Helton, and Peggy Adams.

This was Mr. Caskey's first school and was unusually successful. This was due to the hearty cooperation of the parents and to the interest shown by the teacher from the very first day. He did not miss a day of school. Not only did he show a personal interest in each pupil, but spent many hours after school and on Saturdays in making the schoolroom more attractive. He assisted the pupils in preparing a nice program, invited the patrons in, and brought Santa Claus along to give out a nice treat.

SCUDDER

Wm. H. Scudder died of pneumonia at his home in Wilmore at 11 a.m. Monday, Jan. 25, 1937. He was taken sick Tuesday of last week.

Mr. Scudder was well known to many of our people, having visited here a number of times when his son, Rev. I. J. Scudder, was pastor of the Methodist church here. He is survived by another son, Johnson, who also is married, and a daughter, Jane, at home; also by three granddaughters, two brothers, and one sister.

Funeral services were held at the residence yesterday morning by Rev. Virgil Moore. Interment was at Pleasantville.

Mr. Scudder had been a rural mail carrier nearly 25 years. He was a consecrated Christian man and was always vitally interested in all the work of his church.

Anna Ruth Lykins is out of school this week, confined to her bed with influenza.
